2 Louis Coleman is due in Boston federal court at 2 p.m on Monday, according to CBS Boston. No cameras will be allowed in the courtroom. The Providence man accused of abducting and murdering a Lynn mother is facing federal kidnapping charges, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office. Louis D. Coleman III, 32, was caught hours after authorities identified him as the suspect connected to Jassy Correia's disappearance after she left her birthday celebration at Venu Nightclub last Saturday night. Authorities said Correia, 23, of Lynn, died from blunt force trauma and strangulation. She was reportedly found in the trunk of Coleman's car on the highway near Wilmington, Delaware. He reportedly told authorities, "She's in the trunk." Her body was bound with duct tape and covered with baking soda, according to authorities.

Julia Ruth Stevens, 102, daughter of Babe, dies

3 Julia Ruth Stevens, the last surviving daughter of Babe Ruth, died Saturday after a brief illness, her family announced. She was 102. She died at an assisted living facility in Henderson, Nev., but until just a few years ago had spent an active life sharing the legacy of her father. Ruth adopted Stevens shortly after he married her mother, Claire Hodgson, in 1929. Stevens was 12 years old at the time. She was a fan of her father's first team — the Boston Red Sox — but also celebrated the New York Yankees. She served as an ambassador for the Ruth family, appearing at special events. Stevens threw out the ceremonial first pitch of the final game played at Yankee Stadium — "the House That Ruth Built" — in 2008. And on July 9, 2016, she threw out the first pitch at Fenway Park on her 100th birthday.

Pitch invader punches player during soccer match

4 Aston Villa midfielder Jack Grealish was punched in the face by a pitch invader during their 1-0 victory at derby rivals Birmingham City in the English Championship (second tier) on Sunday. The supporter ran on to the pitch at St Andrew's Stadium and made a beeline for Grealish, who did not see him coming, before landing a punch to the side of his face. Grealish fell to the turf as a steward and Villa players Glenn Whelan and Tammy Abraham caught the man and dragged him away from the spot. The Villa captain got to his feet a few seconds later, apparently unhurt, and the match continued after stewards and security personnel had ushered the man, seen blowing kisses to the crowd, off the pitch. West Midlands police said later a man had been arrested. "There's rivalry and stuff in football but I don't think there's any place for that in football," Grealish said after the match.

In budget, Trump to ask Congress for $8.6 billion for border wall

The request is unlikely to pass in the Dem-controlled House.

GETTY IMAGES

President Donald Trump on Monday will ask the U.S. Congress for an additional $8.6 billion to help pay for the wall he promised to build on the southern border with Mexico to combat illegal immigration and drug trafficking, officials familiar with his 2020 budget request told Reuters.

The demand is more than six times what Congress allocated for border projects in each of the past two fiscal years, and 6 percent more than Trump has corralled by invoking emergency powers this year.

Democrats, who oppose the wall as unnecessary and immoral, control the House, making it unlikely the president's request will win congressional passage. Republicans control the Senate.

The proposal comes on the heels of a bruising battle with Congress over wall funding that resulted in a five-week partial federal government shutdown that ended in January, and could touch off a sequel just ahead of a trifecta of ominous fiscal deadlines looming this fall.

Asked on Fox News Sunday about the new funding request and if there would be another budget fight over Trump's wall, White House economic adviser Larry Kudlow said, "I suppose there will be ... he's going to stay with his wall and he's going to stay with the border security theme. I think it's essential."

Broadly speaking on the budget, Kudlow told Fox, "The president is proposing roughly a 5 percent across-the-board reduction in domestic spending accounts."

Regardless of whether Congress passes it, the budget request could help Trump frame his argument on border security as the 2020 presidential race begins to take shape, with the president seeking re-election.

"Build the wall" was one of his signature campaign pledges in his first run for office in 2016. "Finish the wall" is already a feature of his re-election campaign, a rallying cry plastered across banners and signs at his campaign rallies.

"It gives the president the ability to say he has fulfilled his commitment to gain operational control of the southwest border," an administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said of the budget request.

"We have provided the course of action, the strategy and the request to finish the job. It's a question of, will Congress allow us to finish the job," a second administration official said.

Funding legislation needs to be passed before Oct. 1 — the start of the 2020 federal fiscal year — or the government could shut down again. If Congress and the White House fail to agree to lift mandatory spending caps set in a 2011 law, steep automatic cuts in many programs would kick in. Around the same time, Trump and lawmakers must agree to lift the debt ceiling, or risk a default, which would have chaotic economic fallout. REUTERS

Megadeth talk the release of their anniversary collection album

"Warheads on Foreheads" is the name of the 35-track album that commemorates the band's 35th anniversary.

GABRIELA ACOSTA SILVA, MWN
letters@metro.us

Megadeth is commemorating their 35th anniversary with the release of "Warheads on Foreheads," a retrospective of their career in 35 songs.

The anthology covers the entire studio career of the band, from their first album "Killing Is My Business" to "Dystopia," and will be available in a special package of three albums and four LPs.

The name of the album is a U.S. military term used to point to efficiency; it's about using the right tool for the job, and these tracks were created for maximum destruction.

Dave Mustaine, co-founder, lead vocalist, guitarist and primary songwriter of Megadeth, reflected with Metro on part of the band's path.

"When I was young, many people told me that I'd better dedicate myself to something else, that I did not need music lessons. I felt frustrated, because that broke my heart and that's why I chose to be a self-taught musician. Music is the way to express myself and is a very important part of my life."

Megadeth's 57-year-old frontman is touring the United States and Canada. He will also play in Latin America at Rock in Rio, in Brazil, on April 10.

MEGADETH BY THE NUMBERS:

"If everyone does their job, things go well. It bothers me to work with promoters that complicate a band's work. I have had bad experiences and I usually warn my friends to work with certain promoters. I am demanding with my music and I am also demanding when I work, especially on tour."

The musician said that he has gone through several stages, but in the end gained perspective and returned to what he likes most.

"This is what Megadeth is. There were several periods in which the band sounded like something else and that was due to the changes in the music industry. I think there was a stage in which metal was forgotten, because you had to be alternative, but in the end, I still do what I like."

This new album material goes beyond music — it shows Megadeth's maturity as musicians.

"I like to be well, in good physical condition. I think I never got to the extreme of following the musician motto "sex, drugs and rock 'n roll." I stopped it in time and I did not have consequences. I love what I do and I worry about giving a good show. If you listen to Megadeth for the first time, I suggest you start with this anniversary album, because chronologically it shows how the band matured at each stage."

March 22

is the date when "Warheads on Foreheads" will go on sale.

Considered one of the four great bands of thrash metal, their influence has reached several generations.

"I'm really excited about 'Warheads on Foreheads,' because with all those songs, the countless riffs, you can go from one song to another without getting bored," Mustaine added.

The American band is ready to demonstrate that they are living their best moment, playing their most popular songs live but with new power to please their faithful followers and attract a new audience.

In 2019, Megadeth will also announce their first "Megacruise," along with contemporaries Anthrax, Testament, Corrosion of Conformity, Dragonforce, Overkill and more.

Here are three events that you can check out this week with your new sense of optimism and drive!

Robyn brings her "Honey" tour to House of Blues
Monday, March 11
Swedish pop singer Robyn has had the definition of a "slow burn" of a career. With releases dating back to the mid-'90s, she had somewhat of a career renaissance in the 2000s with songs like "Dancing On My Own" and "Call Your Boyfriend," taking on the banner of "Songs to put on when you want to take the party up to 11." Last year, Robyn released her first album in eight years, "Honey," which is arguably her strongest to date and will be bringing her tour to the House of Blues for what may be the biggest dance party of the year so far.

Doors open at 6 p.m. The House of Blues is located on 15 Lansdowne St. Ticket prices vary between each section. As of press time, tickets were still available. Make sure to head over to houseofblues.com/boston to snag yours today.

Speed Rack: Charity Female Bartending Competition at the Royale
Monday, March 11
Food competitions are fun events to attend in that their competitive nature is always something attendees can get into with full force. But what makes them truly special is that attendees usually reap the benefits in being served whatever the contestants have prepared in the kitchen.

Tonight, the Royale will be hosting a cocktail competition between local women bartenders to raise money for breast cancer research. This will be the qualifying round for a larger international competition and attendees will be able to sample all of the delicious drinks throughout the night.

The event starts at 5:30 p.m. The Royale night club is located on 279 Tremont St. Tickets are $25 in advance and $30 at the door. For tickets and event information, head over to ticketfly.com.

Brian Regan at The Wilbur Theatre
Thursday, March 14 & Friday, March 15
The Wilbur Theatre will be welcoming stand-up comedian Brian Regan for two nights of hilarious material. Regan is one of the most hardworking and original comics of the past two decades. If you are unfamiliar with his work, he is a complete force of nature onstage. Regan has released numerous hour-long specials over his long career and his 2017 Netflix special "Nunchucks and Flamethrowers" ranks among his very best. We'll see what he has in store when he makes his way to the area for two shows this week.

Both shows start at 7:30 p.m. The Wilbur Theatre is located on 246 Tremont St. Tickets vary by section. For tickets, head over to thewilbur.com. PAT KING

Everyone wants back in with Pats

Martellus Bennett celebrates with cheerleaders after defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers, 36-17, to win the AFC Championship Game at Gillette Stadium on Jan. 22, 2017. GETTY IMAGES

Winning the Super Bowl has again made Foxborough the NFL's most popular spot to play.

MATTHEW BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

A year ago at this time, the sky was falling in Foxborough.

Players, even some still under contract with the Pats, were badmouthing the Patriot Way and it sure seemed like the dynasty was crumbling.

But, as they say, winning cures everything. After a brief hiatus, New England is once again the most desirable location to play at on the NFL map. So much so that dudes want to come out of retirement, and guys who were verbally trashing the organization 365 days ago suddenly want back in.

Here is a look at the status of a few players either already in the fold or rumored to be ready to land with the Pats.

Michael Bennett

This Eagles–Patriots trade is expected to be finalized this week. In Bennett, the Patriots get a player who is still elite based on statistics. Bennett racked up 51 pressures last season, which had him tied for 13th in the NFL.

"I still know that I'm one of the best players in the NFL," Bennett told NFL Network last week. "I love football and whatever team I'm on, I'm going to take that same attitude and go out there and be a nasty player, try to dominate on the defensive line, and be the best teammate and best player I can possibly be."

Martellus Bennett

Martellus Bennett racked up 701 yards receiving in his one full season with the Patriots in 2016.

Patriots fans are no stranger to Michael's brother Martellus, as Martellus won a Super Bowl with the Pats in 2016. Martellus had his best year in the NFL with the Patriots that season as he grabbed a career-high seven touchdowns. He also had 55 catches for 701 yards.

You'll remember that Martellus came back with the Pats at the tail-end of the 2017 season but was banged up and never found his groove. He ultimately retired a year ago this month.

But Martellus seems fully healthy now and was flirting with a comeback even before the Pats traded for his brother.

"I heard this is the year of the comeback," Martellus said in late

February (via TMZ). "Yo, Bill. Tom. Holla at ya boy. Ya'll already know what's up … Yo, Gronk, hold on. Hold on, Gronk! Hold on, Gronk, your boy's on the way!"

Danny Amendola
Amendola was released by the Dolphins last week, and according to The Athletic's Jeff Howe, he would be interested in a return to New England. Amendola was quite vocal about his disagreement with the Super Bowl LII benching of Malcolm Butler last year, but he did not say anything worthy of a full-fledged bridge burn.

Rob Gronkowski
Gronk was another player furious with the organization at this time last year, and it seemed like for the brunt of the 2018 season that it was a slam dunk that he would retire. In this case, his silence has been a good thing.

"There's no decision yet," ESPN's Adam Schefter said on WEEI last week. "But I think that if you're a Patriots fan or with the Patriots, you have to feel encouraged. We're now a month out of the Super Bowl and we haven't heard anything. It seems like business as usual. I think right now I would be more surprised if Gronk retires than if he came back."

Celtics seeking a California sweep

GETTY IMAGES

A West Coast swing can often bury a fragile team.

Turns out a trip to the Pacific time zone was exactly what the doctor ordered for the unpredictable Celtics.

The C's can make it a California sweep — four in a row — with a win over the Clippers at Staples Center tonight (10:30, NBC Sports Boston).

One of the many things that has been encouraging about this past week for the Celtics has been the fact that they are getting different players stepping up each night. Gordon Hayward led the C's in scoring in their 128-95 blowout win over the Warriors last Tuesday. Jayson Tatum was the high-scorer a night later in the victory over the Kings with 24 points, and Kyrie Irving led the way with 30 in a 120-107 win over LeBron and the Lakers on Saturday.

"I feel like we're on the right track," Hayward told ESPN. "Certainly winning three in a row helps that. Certainly we can improve, too. We just want to be playing our best basketball come playoff time."

Hayward has scored in double figures in all three of the Celtics' road wins in the past week after putting up just six points in a loss to the Rockets on March 3.

The C's will return home on Thursday to start a three-game home stand, beginning with a rematch against Sacramento.

metro.us/horoscopes

Aries Look for new ways to conquer old problems. Call in favors from people you have helped in the past. Don't risk injury trying to do something without needed assistance.

Taurus Look for the safest route and get moving. Feeling passionate about something will fuel the fire and help you reach your goal. Don't trust someone who is trying to take charge.

Gemini Pay close attention to what others are doing, and keep your distance from anyone pledging to do the impossible. A partnership will be laced with uncertainty.

Cancer Call in people you trust to help you get things done. An unusual relationship will have more to offer than you first thought. Pick what works best for you.

Leo Take a closer look at what others are doing. Don't make a decision based on what you are told. Following someone who is pushy will end up costing you emotionally.

Virgo Do what makes you happy. Don't give in to someone who is overreacting or using unfair tactics to get you to do things differently. Use common sense and form stable partnerships.

Libra Consider what you want and work quietly on your own to avoid interference. A joint venture will lead to a disagreement and end up costing you emotionally and financially.

Scorpio You'll be drawn to a unique individual who opens your mind to interesting concepts and possibilities. Discover what works best for you, instead of following someone's prompts.

Sagittarius Stick to simple and doable projects. Work toward a goal that will advance you, not someone else. Verify information you are given before you take action.

Capricorn Change will bring new and exciting opportunities your way. Dress up your residence to suit your needs. Put comfort and convenience first, but don't let temptation lead you to overspend.

Aquarius Think twice before you get involved in something that may not be legitimate. You are better off chasing your own dreams instead of signing up to help someone else.

Pisces A change will be premature. Make sure you have covered every angle before you agree to something questionable. Know your limits and boundaries to make the right decision. EUGENIA LAST
